

Manage your farm profitably, enjoyably,
and ecologically.

Have you reached the end of the “busy season” exhausted, at odds with your family and business partners, and dreading tax season? Are you convinced this let-down is just “part of farming”? Make next year different. Attend our interactive Holistic Management Trainings and learn how.

December 9, 2011—Problem solving with HM
January 20, 2012-- Problem solving with HM
February 3, 2012—Financial Planning with HM
March 2, 2012--Financial Planning with HM

8am-4pm

URI's East Farm, Bldg. #75, Kingston, RI 02881

Cost: $20/person/workshop (lunch included)

Guest Speaker: Seth Wilner, farmer and University of New Hampshire Extension Educator specializing in soil fertility, nutrient management, strategic planning, and marketing.

RSVP by November 30th to: Kristen Castrataro
kcas@uri.edu or phone: 401-874-2967/401-256-7393

Make checks payable to URI and mail to:
Kristen Castrataro, URI Cooperative Extension
3 E. Alumni Avenue, Kingston, RI 02881

THE UNIVERSITY
OF RHODE ISLAND
Cooperative Extension

This event is part of a USDA/Northeast SARE grant: Taking in the Whole Picture: Incorporating Holistic Management on RI's Farms led Kristen Castrataro.

URI provides equal program opportunity. Persons with disabilities needing special accommodations should contact us prior this event.